

Source: <http://www.mtroyal.ca/library/files/citation/apa.pdf>

Integrating Research into Your Writing

Citing a quotation and then continuing with a paraphrase from the same source later in the sentence	The professor's study explained that "students who use active listening techniques to stay engaged in a class lecture demonstrated better marks on exams" (Velasquez, 2011, p. 72); her report described the various strategies that successful students use to mentally participate in the learning process (p. 81). OR Velasquez (2011) explained that "students who use active listening techniques to stay engaged in a class lecture demonstrated better marks on exams" (p. 72); her report described the various strategies that successful students use to mentally participate in the learning process (p. 81).
Citing a quotation used at the start of a sentence, and then continuing with your own words/ideas/comments	He found that the "results demonstrated that the first variable (persistence) had the most effect on the outcome of an exam" (Twoyoungmen, 2010, p. 96), but the study lacked sufficient detail. OR Twoyoungmen (2010) found that the "results demonstrated that the first variable (persistence) had the most effect on the outcome of an exam" (p. 96), but the study lacked sufficient detail.

